

XXX Annual Conference of Society of Toxicology (India) November 29-30, 2010

Jamia Hamdard proudly announces hosting of the XXX Annual Conference of Society of Toxicology (India) during November 29-30, 2010 and invites toxicologists from India and abroad to participate in scientific deliberations during the meeting. The three main themes of the Conference would be:

- Herbals in toxicity prevention
- Toxicological implications of GM foods
- Toxicology and regulation of nanomaterials

Jamia Hamdard is one of the pioneering institutions involved in teaching and research in toxicology in India. In the 21st year of its existence the University envisages to showcase this event and to celebrate its universal toxicology alumni and contribution to human resource development in the field of toxicology and pharmacology in India.

There will be Keynote Assess Session, Plenary Lecture Session, Invited Lecture Section, Platform Presentation Session, Poster Session and Award Presentation Session by Young Toxicologists. A detailed Scientific Programme will be circulated soon. Interested participants may send their intent and proposals to the Organizing Secretary.

Sponsors who wish to contribute to the Conference and intend to put up their exhibits at the Conference Venue may also write to the Organizing Secretary.
